Established as the Kuwait Investment Board in February 1953 and later reorganized into the Kuwait Investment Office (KIO) in 1965. KIA's foundation predates the independence of the modern State of Kuwait. HH Sheikh Abdullah Al Salem, the Amir of Kuwait, at the time had the vision to build a fund for the future of all Kuwaitis. At the time, KIO was the first and only sovereign wealth fund in the world. In the years that followed a focus on asset allocation and diversification into new geographies, expanding beyond the United Kingdom to include the United States, Asia and select Emerging Markets. In 1976, the Future Generations Fund (FGF) Amiri decree was passed which is the most important event in the history of the KIO after its establishment. With that law, a minimum of 10% of the State of Kuwait's revenues are transferred to the FGF. This created a constant flow of funds to the FGF which helped grow it over the years. The KIO played a pivotal role during the first Gulf War in 1990 and the liberation and reconstruction efforts that followed; acting as the Ministry of Finance for the government in exile. As state assets were frozen, KIO organized the transfer of funds globally and to the Kuwaiti Government, in exile, in Saudi Arabia. KIO Today Located in the City of London, KIO is a global investor in one of the world's leading financial centers with access to markets, financial institutions, and industry leaders and experts. KIO's mission statement is focused on 3 elements: Manage that portion of the Future Generations Fund entrusted to it by the State of Kuwait Preserve the funds capital and achieve a fair return over the long term by exceeding and outperforming its benchmark Continuously evolve KIO's reputation as an expert and progressive institution that invests in the international financial markets In addition, KIO has a strong focus on not only investing the future generations fund of Kuwait but also developing the future generations of Kuwait. KIA's team of professionals include highly skilled Kuwaitis who play an important role in managing the assets of the FGF. KIA's team of investment professional all based in London are split into various asset classes and invests directly in: equities, fixed income and alternatives including infrastructure and real estate across the globe. KIA realized the importance of investing in China and the Far East. During a visit to China that was held in 2009 by His Highness Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Sabah, the Amir of Kuwait, the KIA signed agreements that laid the groundwork for such investments. One of which saw the establishment of Kuwait Investment Authority's first ever representative office in Beijing. This office was a gateway to expanding KIA's investment throughout China. Further to KIA opening a representative office in Beijing in 2011, during the second visit of His Highness Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Sabah, the Amir of Kuwait, the KIA signed agreements that laid the groundwork for such investments. One of which saw the establishment of Kuwait Investment Authority's first ever representative office in Beijing. This office was a gateway to expanding KIA's investment throughout China. Furthermore, the relocation of the office from Beijing to Shanghai reflects KIA's belief to the increasingly importance of Shanghai as a global financial center. Established as the Kuwait Investment Board in 1953 and later renamed as the Kuwait Investment Office (KIO) in 1965. KIA's roots predate the birth of the modern State of Kuwait. Along with its renaming, a new policy of diversification of assets and portfolios was adopted, expanding beyond the United Kingdom to include the United States, Asia and some emerging markets. The KIO played a pivotal role during the 1990 Gulf War and the liberation and reconstruction efforts that followed; acting as the Central Bank for the government in exile. As state assets were frozen, KIO organized the transfer of funds globally and to the exiled Kuwaiti Government in Saudi Arabia. Situated in the City of London, KIO's advantageous location in one of the world's leading financial centers provides staff access to financial institutions, markets, and relevant investment experts. KIA's major function is to manage that portion of the Future Generations Fund entrusted to it by the State of Kuwait, to maintain the real value of such funds and to achieve a fair return over the long term. KIA's objectives also include regenerating and enhancing its reputation as an expert and progressive institution that invests in the international financial markets. KIA aims to out-perform relative investment benchmarks. KIA consists of a number of small professional teams, organized on an investment/non-investment basis. KIA's portfolio managers actively manage funds covering various asset classes including: equities, fixed income, private equity, infrastructure and real estate in all the main geographical areas across the globe.
